Customer Journey Map

Map out the customer's experience stage-by-stage, capturing their actions, touchpoints, thoughts, and feelings, along with process ownership and improvement opportunities at each stage.

Phase of Journey	Stage 1: Enter Story Idea	Stage 2: Generate Comic	Stage 3: Layout & Export
Actions What does the customer do?	- Opens the ComicCraft app - Types a story idea or prompt - Picks a genre and art style	- Reads the generated story and panel script - Waits for the panel images - Regenerates a panel if not happy	- Checks the final comic page - Downloads the comic as a PDF - Shares it with friends or class
Touchpoint What part of the service do they interact with?	- Streamlit web interface - Prompt input box - Genre and style selector	- Gemini text model (story) - Gemini image model (panels) - Preview screen	- Layout module (captions, speech bubbles) - PDF export button - Downloaded comic file
Customer Thought What is the customer thinking?	“Will this tool understand my idea?” “I hope it is easy to use.” “I don’t have to draw anything.”	“The story looks good!” “Will the pictures match my story?” “How long will this take?”	“My comic looks professional.” “Can I save it easily?” “I can’t wait to show this.”
Customer Feeling What is the customer feeling?	Curious and hopeful	Excited, a little impatient	Proud and satisfied
Process Ownership Who is in the lead on this?	Keerthiga V (Team Lead) – story generation and user interface	Charumathi S and Gajalakmi B – panel images and art styles	Jayapriya G and Nathisha K – page layout and PDF export
Opportunities How can we improve this stage?	- Add example prompts - Keep the input form simple - Suggest popular styles	- Show a progress indicator - Let users edit the story first - Keep characters consistent across panels	- Offer different layout choices - Add image export options - Add an easy share option
